

CPU SUMMER UNIVERSITY

30-31 August 2017

Universities and diversities of excellence in Europe Comparative perspective on – Germany, United Kingdom, Austria, Ireland France

The CPU's summer university, organized for the presidents, is an opportunity every year to open up and distance itself from major issues that shape the evolution of the Head research landscape. The theme chosen in 2017 will be an opportunity to exchange views with academic leaders from four countries, Germany, the United Kingdom, Austria and Ireland in order to better understand how each country faces the diversity of HE and research missions, in term of research, excellence and mass dissemination, service to the population and contribution to economic development, etc.

WEDNESDAY 30 AUGUST 2017

Salle de conference CPU - 4th floor - 103 bld Saint Michel - Paris)

9.00-9.30: Welcome coffee

9.30- 9.45: Opening Gilles Roussel, President of CPU

- 9.45- 12.00: Session 1 - Distributed Excellence, Research Universities and Forms of Excellence

All universities link training and research activities, but some with an intensity of means that makes them carry a stronger requirement of international outreach. How is set up this differentiation of HE institutions or groupings of HE institutions in each country? To what extent is this differentiation the object of public policy and is it the result of choices made by different HE institutions?

Moderator : Pierre Mutzenhardt, Président de l'université de Lorraine

- Horst Hippler, Président, HRK
- Emma Hunt, Deputy Vice Chancellor, Arts University Bournemouth
- Vivienne Stern, Director of the UK Higher Education International Unit, UUK
- Christine Musselin, researcher at Centre de sociologie des organisations (CSO) et scientific director of Sciences Po

12.15- 14.00 Lunch (Institut national des jeunes sourds, rue de l'abbé de l'épée)

- 14.h00- 16.15: Session 2 - Education of scientific elites and mass education

Everywhere, the rise in the qualification of jobs has led universities to expand the population traditionally trained and their professional outlets. How do we combine in each country excellence in research and training, missions of international attractiveness and concern for the qualification of populations and economic development of its territory? Does this lead to a specialization of universities or only to broaden more or less the spectre of their missions? How does this happen in each country?

Moderator: Christine Gang off-Ziegler, President of the université de Haute-Alsace

- Emma Hunt, Deputy Vice Chancellor, Arts University Bournemouth
- Dieter Leonhard, Rector, Hochschule Mannheim
- Oliver Vettori, Directeur des enseignements Wirtschafts, Universität Wien

16.15- 16.h45: Pause

- 16.45- 19.15 Session 3: Evolution of the Bologna process

The year 2018 will be the 20th anniversary of the Sorbonne declaration, which initiated the Bologna process and the creation of a European Higher education area. A conference of the Ministers will act, in May, the new impulses to give. Which assessment does each country have about its implementation, and on which axes do the coming changes have to be done?

Moderator: Carle Bonnafous-Murat, President of Université Sorbonne Nouvelle Paris3

- Lesley Wilson, Secretary General, EUA
- Horst Hippler, President, HRK
- Michel Cosnard, President, HCERES
- Simone Bonnafous, expert on Bologna, IGAENR

20.00 – 22.00: Evening at the Concordia residence of the CROUS of Paris, 41 rue Tournefort, 750005 Paris, in the presence of the Minister of Higher Education, Research and Innovation, Frédérique Vidal.

Welcome by Marie Message, Deputy Managing Director of CNOUS, and Denis Lambert, Director of Crous de Paris

THURSDAY 31 AUGUST 2017

Salle de conférence CPU 4th floor

- 9.00 - 9.45:

Joint interventions by the Minister of Education, Jean-Michel Blanquer, and the Minister of Higher Education, Research and Innovation, Frédérique Vidal

- 9.45 - 11.30: Session 4 - Territorial anchorage and international attractiveness, universities stakeholders of their region internationally

In each country, HE and research is recognized, as an essential lever for competitiveness and each university is essential to the development of its region, where it is the pivot of an ecosystem linking basic and applied research and job creation, as well as basic training and specialization. What are the axes and tools of such a value chain in each country, enabling a territory to project itself in international competition? What is the place of universities, schools and RPOs? Which intermediation services?

Moderator: Jacques Comby, President of the université Jean Moulin Lyon 3

- Dieter Leonhard, Rector, Hochschule Mannheim
- Grace Neville, former Vice-president for learning and teaching, University College Cork / University Nationale d'Irlande
- Philippe Laredo, Directeur de recherche à l'Université Paris-Est
-

11.30- 12.15: Intervention of the Ministry of economy, Bruno Le Maire

12. 15- 14: Lunch (Institut national des jeunes sourds, rue de l'abbé de l'épée)